KINGFIELD

Brett Johnson, live bass player for the hip-hop group "Atmosphere", is also a vocalist/guitarist who wrote his first solo rock album entitled, "Letters Post Mortem", under the moniker, "Kingfield."

"Letters Post Mortem" began as a series of demos that Brett was writing, and self-recording, between Atmosphere tours. The songs were inspired by his battle with cancer, Non-Hodgkins Lymphoma, which ended with him as the victor. He has been in remission since June 2002.

Brett passed out the demo recordings to a few of his musician friends with the hopes that they would learn their parts and practice them to perfection. They did as much, and as a result, "Letters Post Mortem" was recorded at Vaudeville MPLS Studios upon Brett returning from his Fall 2005 Tour with Atmosphere.

On "Letters Post Mortem", KINGFIELD is:

Brett Johnson (Vocals/Guitar)
Mark Messina (Drums)
Jeremy Jessen (Guitar/Vocals)
Shane Baskerville (Bass)

The street date for this CD is set for Tuesday December 5th, 2006, with a CD Release party on Friday December 8th, 2006.

Kingfield will tour the US & Canada in support of "Letters Post Mortem" throughout 2007.
